The continuously updated review for mental health professionals

Psychiatry is a review journal presenting current knowledge and practice of psychiatric conditions, treatments and outcome in a structured three-year 'curriculum'. With guidance from highly regarded editorial board members and chapter editors, and contributions from leading experts in all key psychiatric specialties, our aim is to describe accepted principles and practice, and to indicate recent advances that will improve the understanding of mental healthcare and the care of patients.

Psychiatry provides information for basic and higher specialist trainees, consultant psychiatrists and specialists in psychological medicine, GPs with a special interest in mental health, psychiatric nurses and other mental health professionals.
