

Publisher's note

Submission of manuscripts by diskette

We would like to announce that authors of this journal will have the option of submitting manuscripts in machine-readable form. The required format, type of word processor is such that we are capable of handling most combinations of systems. In every issue at the back information pages you may find instructions for submission.

Please note that the usual submission method on hard copy alone will always be possible. You may rest assured that the final quality of the printed article will remain the same whether it originates from a compuscript submission or a submission on hard copy.

We expect that the production times can be enhanced further if the process has been fully implemented. We hope that many of our regular authors will take this opportunity of submitting their manuscripts in electronic form.

The Publisher